Challenges in the implementation of eLearning - Infographics

An infographic helps us to discover the greatest challenges of eLearning.

Regardless of whether your target audience is experienced managers or university students, there are various obstacles to the successful use of an eLearning course and its contents. Every eLearning professional must have a good awareness of the challenges he faces and knows how to cope with it.

The following infographic shows the most common challenges in eLearning. From the developers, creators and authors of eLearning courses it emerges the necessity to have:

- a system that allows to create quality eLearning courses in a simple and cost-effective way;
- a system that allows to easily create courses that can be used by different devices (from computers to smartphones), maintaining a high level of graphic quality;
- a system that allows to create courses of great impact through predefined graphic models;
- specific training on the instrument purchased to be able to use it better and with ease.
