ELEARNINGNEWS ARTICLE

Year 4 - number 124 Wednesday 2 september 2020

Post-COVID Training and eLearning

What will digital learning be like in the post-COVID future?

We have already talked about the world of post-COVID digital education in this article, in which we presented through an infographic the data of the research conducted.

However, it is interesting to deepen the subject with the full research report.

"95% of the directors of the L&D department say that training will no longer be the same because of the experience and consequences of the COVID-19 emergency. But what will digital learning be like in the future? David Wilson, CEO of Fosway Group, shared research that explores what is working in organizations right now and the key issues to consider as we build a new digital learning ecosystem.

In particular, he discovered in the report:

- What changed in L&D as a result of the pandemic
- What are the new opportunities for digital learning?
- Because integration and collaboration are fundamental
- What are the approaches that make the difference

Go to the free resources section

Translated with www.DeepL.com/Translator