Advantages of eBooks and Audiobooks in e-Learning training

When you're designing e-Learning training, do not close yourself on a single format of downloadable documents, because each has specific advantages

In this interesting article for eLearning Industry, Kim Staflund talks about the importance of eBooks and Audiobooks in the frame of didactic design of e-Learning courses

They're "tools" with very peculiar advantages. eBook allows a very relaxed and comfortable fruition, with the ease of going back at any moment to revise concepts and information. Audiobook, on the other hand, allows a learning "on the go" without the needs of traditional reading.

In view of these specific features, the author's recommendation is to implement both training modes in the design of our e-Learning course: this way we can be sure to grant to the highest possible number of people to find the favourite learning way.
